

THE GIFT

Saturday, March 24 | John 4:1-26

I did not have the benefit of growing up in a Christian home. We did not attend church on Easter or Christmas Eve. As I look back on my life, I recall two distinct times in my past where a childhood friend of mine, as well as the parents of my daughter's childhood friend offered a gift that did not cost them anything but afforded eternal life to myself and my family. In this story, Jesus intentionally connected with a Samaritan woman caught in the midst of sexual sin in order to completely change the course of her life. All the cultural barriers were set up to prevent opportunities like this from occurring, but Jesus was determined to offer the gift of life to the broken and lost of the world.

Thank God we know the good news of Jesus and understand the "gift of living water". We all possess an unlimited supply of living water to offer to the people God has placed in our lives.

What are the barriers you allow to keep you from being used by God?

How often do you have intentional conversations about Jesus with your family?

What if you are the one God is counting on to tell your neighbors/coworkers about Jesus?
