

Word to the Wise: Knowledge

Life Steps | October 13 & 14, 2018

Monday

Proverbs 2:1-2

As you begin your day, start with reading these two verses. Think about what it means to make your ear attentive to wisdom; think about what it means to incline your heart to understanding. Reflect on these verses. Allow for some silence after reading and allow your thoughts to go where they will, using these verses as something to center your mind on. Journal what your thoughts reveal.

Tuesday

Matthew 6:33

Begin your day with this verse. Remember what it means to seek God first before doing anything else. Take some time this morning to memorize this verse. Write it down on something that you can keep with you. Allow this verse to help focus your prayer throughout the day. Journal what your experiences were like with this verse at the end of the day.

Wednesday

Proverbs 1:7

Begin your day with this verse. It reminds us that true knowledge begins with the fear of the Lord. What do you think Solomon meant by this? Keep this verse with you throughout the day, just like on previous days. How do your thoughts about this verse change throughout the day as you experience various people and situations? Journal about any revelations that come your way.

Thursday

Proverbs 14:15, 18

Begin your day with this verse. Take a moment to consider who you allow to speak into your life. The knowledge that we receive from God can often come through the voices of other people in our lives. Who are the people that you respect and admire enough to be a part of your wise council?

Friday

Proverbs 2:3-4

Begin your day with this verse. Think about the following statement: Knowledge from God is more valuable than money or possessions. Do you genuinely believe this? How do your actions, or how you spend your time during the day reflect how you answer that question?

Saturday

Proverbs 2:7

Begin your day with this verse. As we have learned, the knowledge of God is inseparable from right living. Do a personal inventory on your life today. Thinking about the commandments of God, what sort of wisdom do you hear from God today? What are the things you need to start/stop doing to have the knowledge of God?

Sunday

Proverbs 2:1-5

The Hebrew term for the word knowledge (yada) indicates a certain level of intimacy and desire. What is your desire to know/understand God? Think about how you prioritize your day. Does this reflect what you say about your desire for God?
